

What is the Cost of a Bike-Fit ?

A Retul bike-fit at Cycling Physiotherapy Centre is a two-hour consultation and costs $360.

A review bike-fit session is only available to existing clients returning with the same bike or a bike of the same style – this is a one-hour consultation and costs $180.

As I am a Physiotherapist providing these consultations for the purpose of injury prevention and treatment you can claim a portion of the session on private health insurance if you have Physio Extras cover – you will need to bring your private health membership card with you.

The amount paid by your private health insurer is entirely dependent on your level of insurance cover but will not exceed $90 which is based on my standard fee for an Assessment Consultation. If you want to check this before your bike-fit then you will need to contact your insurer directly and ask what rebate you would receive for a P500 Assessment Consultation. If they request my Provider Number to enable them to calculate your rebate it is 2439954X.
